Leading Private Dispute Resolution Firm Establishes East Coast Presence, Bringing Expanded Resources and Elevated Service to New England Clients

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 13, 2026) – Signature Resolution, a premier private dispute resolution firm known for its elite panel of neutrals and concierge-level service, is pleased to announce that Massachusetts-based ADR firm Commonwealth Mediation and Conciliation, Inc. (CMCI) is joining its network in March 2026. This move marks Signature Resolution's expansion to the East Coast and its evolution into a national provider of dispute resolution services.

For more than three decades, CMCI has served attorneys and their clients across New England with care, preparation, and integrity, resolving complex civil matters ranging from business and commercial contracts cases, to tort and construction disputes, to a specialization in large-scale mass claims. That tradition of service continues as CMCI's panel of neutrals transitions fully to Signature Resolution, preserving the trusted working relationships and results that have defined CMCI's practice while expanding the resources and infrastructure available to support them.

“I wanted the ability to assist parties on a larger scale, and to work with an organization that I knew was first class to do so,” said Paul Finn, Founder and CEO of CMCI and incoming Signature Resolution neutral. “Signature Resolution has the same standard for exceptional service and results that we do, and the resources we need to serve our neutrals and their clients on such a high level.”

CMCI's existing Massachusetts operations and client relationships will transition to the Signature Resolution platform in the coming months. CMCI's entire panel of neutrals, consisting of John G. Bagley, William F. Burke, Hon. James E. Byrne (Ret.), Hon. Suzanne V. DelVecchio (Ret.), Paul A. Finn, Donald R. Grady, Jr., John Haverty, Mark R. Karsner, and Hon. Christopher J. Muse, will join Signature Resolution's growing national roster, bringing expanded capacity in the Northeast market and strengthening the firm's ability to serve attorneys and clients managing complex, multi-jurisdictional disputes.

“CMCI’s reputation and panel are a perfect fit for Signature Resolution,” said Dario Higuchi, founder and Chief Executive Officer of Signature Resolution. “This is the first step in our broader vision of bringing our neutral-centric approach to dispute resolution services on a national scale.”

Signature Resolution provides litigation attorneys and their clients with access to highly respected neutrals, streamlined case management, and concierge service designed to remove friction from the resolution process. The firm is recognized for combining judicial and practitioner expertise with a professionally designed environment that prioritizes efficiency and results, removing the delays and uncertainty that too often accompany traditional litigation.

The growing national demand for a modern, neutral-forward alternative to litigation is reflected by Signature Resolution’s expansion to the East Coast. They will continue to seek opportunities to bring their distinct model to new cities and regions through top-tier partnerships in the years to come.
